RCMP AIDS IN SMASHING LARGE NARCOTICS RING

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) - Federal and local narcotics agents, U.S. Customs officials and RCMP staged a well-planned raid today and claimed to have smashed the largest narcotics smuggling ring in the city's history.

In a synchronized attack, authorities arrested at least 12 figures in Buffalo narcotics operations reported doing a business of several hundred thou-sand dollars a year or higher. The crackdown was the result of a secret federal indictment returned

Police said an alleged kingpin of the narcotics traffic here, Joseph Moses, was taken in custody.

It seems every year is a Centennial year in British Columbia.

We had that impression when Rae Eddie, the straighting CCF member for New Westminster, reminded us has the suyal cay is some contraining the 100th and of its incorporation. Every year from now on some part of this province will be having a celebration—and this could be embarrassing to

Mr. Eddie, for instance, is asking for a new courthouse a centennial giff to New Westminster.

"Our present courthouse has not been improved since 1911," he declared.

Since Victoria is getting a new courthouse and there are soon to be additions to the Vancouver courthouse, Mr. Eddle could not see why New Westminster should be left out in the cold.

Listening to Earle Westwood, our genial recreations minister, one develops a new pride in the wonders of this western land and sympathizes with him when he says:

"We are trying to shatter the image (abroad) of a prov-ince living on the fringes of civilization and wrestling with the primeval elements to maintain itself in the face of hostile Indians and thin-lipped Mounties." British papers please copy!

Mr. Westwood spoke with particular pride of the government's new color publication, "Beautiful British Columbia —Land of New Horizons," and said it is now being circulated all over the world.

"Is it subsidized?" asked CCF leader Robert Strachan with a disarming grin.

Mr. Westwood ignored the question. He told of letters he had received from admiring readers in many countriesnot forgetting the Iron Curtain countries. Obviously when B.C. is recognized behind The Curtain it is getting somewhere.

Cedric Cox, the lively CCF member for Burnaby, has also been behind The Curtain. He visited Russia last summer and brought back a number of colored slides which he will show to members in the cafeteria of the Douglas Building next Monday at 8.15 p.m.

Mr. Speaker Hugh Shantz was in a critical mood Tues-day afternoon. He rebuked members of the House for not oducing new acts of parliament in the proper form ("Mr. Speaker, I beg leave," etc.), and said there were far too many

"Two-thirds of all the speeches we have heard this session have been read word for word," the Speaker said. "This tends to lower the standard of debate so that it becomes a sort of talk-fest.

"I would urge members to debate the matters before them instead of reading from written speeches."

When members of the House were introducing new bills, Attorney General Robert Bonner (who is House leader In the absence of Premier Bennett) asked leave to introduce "An Act to amend the Executions Act."

"This is probably meant for me," joked CCF leader Rob ert Strachan

The Growing Giant

RUSSIA'S RATE OF INDUS-trial growth is reported to be greater than that of the United States, the Soviet production capacity is increasing faster than the capacity of its rival, although America still retains a lead in most categories. This new development has caused some scarching questions on this side of the Atlantic.

But another similar trend has become evident with the recent publication of Russian and Communist Chinese annual economic reports. According to the announced statistics—and their accuracy may be open to revision—Red China's industrial potential is increasing at a greater rate than Russia's. While still below the Russian it is catching up, just as Russia's production is catching up to that of the United States.

It is reasonable to believe that Moscow looks upon Red China's achievement with much the same feelings aroused in Washington by Moscow's advance.

It is true that Red China had to recant some of its claims for 1958. The so-called great leap forward had not covered as much ground as predicted, or, indeed, as first reported. And only recently there was evidthat the boasted increase in steel production had been largely propaganda: the backyard smelters ad not produced much usable iron. Other production figures, as for crops, were suspect.

But for purposes of comparison with Russia, the claim for over-all development is interesting. Peiping says its total agricultural and industrial output for 1959 exceeded 1958 by 31 per cent. Moscow reports that Russia's national income in 1959 increased by 8 per cent over 1958: The figures are not directly comparable, but they indicate the respective rates of growth.

There is particular interest in another comparison. China's production appears to be increasing at a faster rate than did Russia's when the latter was in a similar stage of development, say at the end of the If this holds true, China may be expected to outstrip Russia by still more when it has attained Russia's 1959 stage of development.

One of the reasons for China's rapid growth compared with Russia's in the latter's first decade is, of course, that it has had a large Communist neighbor ready to assist it. Russia had no such support, although it did import technical aid and capital at a later stage.

Another reason is that China has been able to regiment its people sooner than did Russia and without initial agricultural loss which Russia suffered through enforced collectivization. Again, China's 600million population has enabled the country to use manpower without stint, and at very low cost, making up in some measure for the lack of capital equipment. And the mech-anization that has taken place has been with the advantage of later scientific improvements than were available to the Russian revolution-

At present, of course, the China Russia comparison is mainly statis-The significance lies in the future possibilities, and these could

It is suggested by some experts. for instance, that within this decade China may exceed all the Europe nations in production, and win third place in world standing. Such a development would have vast effects on the global balance of power. From being an ally of Russia, China could become a competitor—and a could become a competitor—and a strong one.

seriously interfere with the estab-lished channels. Floods of Chinese goods into South America, Africa and Asia might make Japan's efforts to engage in world trade seem small by comparison.

With economic power, of course, goes military power, and the huge industrial potential of China could soon produce nuclear materials.

Many other factors must naturally be considered. The line projected across a graph need not plot an inevitable route. But the possi-bilities are great and must already be engaging the serious attention of the two major powers now-competing for world influence. Russia and the West may yet-may soon-find co-operation enforced on them for their mutual protection.

As I Set Down These Great Events have set out to keep a diary. And a very large number of people at one time or another have falled to continue a diary after having made a start. These numbers are very nearly equal. Forter their hobby im-poses and have left Tobin accounts of their lives and times which in some cases have had great historical in some cases have man great historical or literary value. Others have left personal records of interest to their families or heirs. And other have simply kept a running memorandum of their kept a running memorandum of their thoughts and experiences for their own

Most of us set out to be in the latter class. And the urge usually hits in the pre-teen or early teen years.

Like mine, the average diary of this period will disclose little of the pressing affairs of the world, it will be of little value to historians and researchers seek ing sidelights on political, economic or sociological matters.

Graphic Details

It will, on the contrary, present a meticulous record of flapjacks eaten at camp, of walks taken, of breakfasts at home, and the occasional cryptic entry such as "Saw a bird," or "Came home the other way."

Perhaps the diary book is received as a Christmas present. January 1 is the argument can be advanced that so close that the novelty is still strong in the Thetis region there is ample when the initial entries are made.

For the first week it is fun. For the second week it is a duty. For the third, a chore. Before the end of January, and certainly some time in February, the

A VERY large number of people at diary, having begun to skip days here and there, dwindles to a halt.

Sometimes it may be reviewed later in the year, perhaps to record a special two-week trip during the summer, or a lone, lost entry at school-closing time:

Little girls reputedly are more assiduous in diary-keeping than boys. Their efforts may run right on into March or even April, brightened by occasional observations such as "I saw HIM again today!!!" or "Tm never going to speak to her again." Diaries of either sex may at times break into code words and secret writing a dangerous habit since the key can easily become lost or forgotten, leaving the writer as much in the dark as the nosey strangers whom it was intended to outwit.

Final Defeat

After a splurge or 505 of diary, keeping it may be years before another attempt is made. But even with adults the same results are usually seen. A fine literary beginning, a religiously maintained schedule, a slip here and there, a resolve to record at least the highlights as they occur, and the inevitable abandonment.

The plain fact must be that the average human life isn't worth recording. So many days are exactly the same as the preceding, so many weeks slip by with-out a single momentous event, that noting down the details must soon impress the writer as a waste of time.

There is, of course, the more advanced form of diary-keeping in which thoughts and impressions, rather than events, are preserved. But the average citizen soon runs into the same trouble. He never has any thoughts or impres sions really worth recording. And if he did have a significant one, self-consciousness alone would prevent him from committing it to paper.

The truth is that the plain citizen, while he may essay a verbal comment time, fears the act of putting his ideas on paper where they may be seen later on in the quiet of reason, or, worse still, come upon by some stranger, or, a thousand times more horrible, gazed upon by some friend.

Few persons can stand the glare of publicity on their innermost thoughts, even when the only public is themselves.

one could read his notes. \

But some diarists seem to have intended that their output should some day be published. They have inscribed their observations in fine flowing sentences, deliberately cultivating a literary style that will go well in a book. Their work is as far ahead of "Bike tire punctured, had to walk to school" as Shakes peare's products are ahead of "Roses are peare's products are ahead of "Roses are controlled to the services in the medical department of the Board of Public Education, said tended that their output should some day be published. They have inscribed their observations in fine flowing sen-tences, deliberately cultivating a literary peare's products are ahead of "Roses are red . . . "

Today we live in fast-moving times. A simple personal diary recounting the daily events of the past 10 or 20 years from a single person's standpoint would be a most interesting record for people, say, 50 years from now. Perhaps every one of us should be keeping such Anyway, you can look it up in the newspapers at the library." Which, come to think of it, saves us all a good deal of bother.

Conversion Traffic

ONE of the stock ways of goading Anglicans is to make pointed and public reference to the number of them who have been received into the Roman Catholic Church.

There are no doubt other Anglicans who are received into one or another of the free churches, but this stream of the constant interdenominational traffic sel-dom gets mentioned. It must be held to be insufficiently crushing. For the first time, the Church of England has this year retorted in kind, and its official Year Book has published a few relevant

They show that the traffic steadily goes on, and they answer the Roman claim of gaining 800 members a year from the Church of England by a counter-claim that the Church of England welcomes into its membership 3,480 Roman Catholics a year Roman Catholics a year.

All this was reported in the press but even if the statistics are exact, they prove what we all knew to be true to begin with—that there is much movement between one church in Chris-tendom and another; and since there are, alas, many churches and not one, it is quite inevitable that it should be so.

But this movement is not a tide which sets only one way, and since all the churches are within the same Christendom, and all both "gain" and "lose," it does not seem to be properly a matter for too much boasting or too immoder-

Those of us who have to give advice to people who are wondering if they should leave one church and seek admission to Those of us wh another ought to be specially grateful to Baron von Hugel for his wisdom and his scrupulousness: Stay in the church of your baptism, since to it you owe all your knowledge of our Lord, unless you be truly called to leave it for another.

That should be the staple of our advice, coupled with a reminder that whether one moves or stays, one is still within Christendom, still bound to the service of the same Kingdom of God.

Results of a dental survey of 4,660 school children in Milwaukee showed seven-year-olds had attained almost maximum dental benefits under the program which has been in operation for six years: a 59 per cent reduction in caries experience. Dr. E. R. Krumbiegel, city commissioner of health, noted also that the cost of the program has averaged 5.5 cents per person per year and that, based on local prevailing costs of treatment, the savings in costs of dental care for children six through 13 years of age would be approximately

Natives and Liquor

A large number of our very good friends are continually advocating more and stronger intoxicating liquor drinking privileges for our native Indian people.

My personal opinion about liquor is that it will spell trouble aplenty for our people with the law. Most of us just can't handle liquor. All the offences our people commit are done while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

De Profundis was published five years after Wilde's death at 44 in 1900, but in a onsiderably abbreviated form.

I don't defend my conduct, I explain it."

The full manuscript came into the possession of the British Museum from Robert Ross, Wilde's publisher. When Wilde left the Reading prison in 1897 for his self-imposed exile from England in Dieppe, Ross met him there and was presented with a handwritten manuscript.

After its publication, in part, Ross gave It to the British Museum in 1910 on the understanding that it would lie there un-

IS THIS OLYMPIC YEAR RUSSIA'S WAITED FOR?

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Olympic champion Irying Jaffee predicts Russians probably will sweep all eight of the 1960 Olympic speed skating gold medals at Squaw Valley, Calif.

"This is the year they've been waiting for.

This is when they expect to make the big kill in our backyard," said Jaffee.

"Not only in speed skating. They're loaded in almost every event,"

Jaffee said Soviet skaters, on the basis of per-formance in tough competition, have to be made the favorites in all eight races — four each for

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

Baseball journalists often become inmates of the glorious myths they create, like rich hermits who trim their caves with opulent drapes. It is not unusual for them to embrace a kind falsehood because the truth might maim the reputation of a great athlete.

The ball reporter is no more a part of the sport than a detective is connected. with the underworld. But some of them believe they are flunkies of the legends of the game instead of acolytes paid to serve truth with impartibility. They turn scoundrels into ornaments of our civilization when they write about them. Some think a man who hits .300 or pitches successfully 20 times in a season is en-titled to absolute reverence.

There is no way anyone can malign Stan Musial. This is a guy whose whole existence demands respect. So pure is his attitude, in sport and business, on the road and at home, that Joe Garagiola, the old catcher, has described him as a saint with money. But Musial doesn't work at his perfection of disposition and impulse. It is a casual matter with him, and it is not a gimmick originally suggested by a publicist.

This is a baseball player as they are described by the propagandists of the game who disseminate their son at father and son banquets and boys' club dinners. It is sad that he lingers on, obstinately believing that his greatness has not diminished, gladly accepting a lower salary than he made last year to prove that his middle-aged mediocrity is temporary and will be defeated by spring's strenuous exer-

The guys in my business have recklessly squandered their tributes on smaller men. The language becomes meanly inefficient when I get around to Musial. The great skills, of course, are part of it. If his talents were minor, this column would not be written. It is possible that some unknown players, smothering in obscurity, might have the same impulses. But I am ignorant of their generosity. I can only be impressed by what I know.

Seven times Musial has been a baiting champion in the National League, and he has put 38 records into the guides of that federation and 13 into the books honoring the unrestricted feats of the sport. But last year, the man who claimed he would depart from the game if his average was less than :300 batted .255.

But the serene nature of the man was not altered. In the glorious years, Musial seemed embarrassed by fame and When it all turned badly, he attempted to be comical about the decay of his gifts, making sad little jokes which never sounded humorous. The philosophy is a simple one. He didn't brag when he had reason to, and he didn't complain when it all went wrong.

Influence on Ball Not As Dramatic

He is positive he will get most of it back this season. But the stubborness is not belligerent. And he isn't angry because I have explained his flaws. But there is no cure for old age and Musial is as feeble as Methuslah.

It was depressing to watch him, as the season ended, trying to play in the final series the Cardinals had with Los Angeles. The posture at the plate had not changed. The swing was the same but the bat didn't have any dramatic influence on the ball. It trickled in slow hesitation toward infielders or went straight up the pipe to be caught The batting was bad enough. But, after the Cardinals shed ahead. Musial was laid off so St. Louis could tighten up the infield.

Money doesn't compel him to push through another seaon. By any standard, Musial is rich. He has invested in a variety of businesses, including a supermarket, a restaurant, a bowling alley and a bank. It is the pride of a man that forces him to do it again. But he is merely another player who does odd jobs around a second division team.

* * * He would not tell anyone, because he is a man of dignity who guards the secret of his controversial opinions. But I wonder what he feels like when Solly Hemus, his manager, pulls him out of a game because they're afraid he will mangle a ground ball. What goes on inside of him when priences throw him the fast ball without decelt and with a contempt that is new to him? Such knowledge will remain are in the vault of himself.

It will be that way again this season, only worse. Stan

I wish he would quit because the image of his greatness is slowly being destroyed. But if he doesn't, I hope he has the best year of his life. I know that can't happen but I must pull for it. This is the finest man I've ever met in And I've known more than my share of right guys

WHY THIS NEW PLYMOUTH ENGINE IS the most remarkable 6" of the sixtles

Here's the Six that goes them all one better! It saves you money . . . and it brings you an exciting new kind of pep and power all its own. With Plymouth's new 30-D Economy Six, you'll enjoy big fuel savings with no sacrifice of power. See for yourself. Test this remarkable new engine now!

30-degree inclination makes possible a new manifold system with separate fuel intake for each cylinder. No cylinder gets too much or too little gas. You get performance that's extra smooth and remarkably thrifty.

Lightweight design cuts gaswasting excess pounds without sacrifice of strength. Trim, modern castings plus generous use of alu-minum combine to bring you this important weight-saving advantage.

High 8.6:1 compression ratio squeezes regular fuel into a light, compact volume to make it burn more powerfully, more efficiently. You'll find no Six in Plymouth's class offers you a higher compression ratio.

Big changes and famous features make '60 Plymouth a bigger value

Six or V-8... whatever's under the hood, it's a cinch your new '60 Plymouth will deliver plenty of solid satisfaction. You get the silence and safety of solid new Unibody construction . . . the contemporary smartness of Plymouth's luxury-look styling . . . the smoothness of Torsion-AIRE Ride. See your Plymouth dealer now for the whole remarkable story of '60 Plymouth's big changes and bigger-than-ever value!

REAL CAKE MIX

To begin with, he could only make a mumbling sound ... the sound men make when they try to express appreciation with a mouth full of cake. Then he said, "Hmmm Real Cake!" Naturally, I agreed with him. Anyone who has baked an Ogilvie Cake Mix knows there couldn't be a cake any more deficiously real.

Isn't it a wonderful thing: a cake from a mix to be proud of—and still lots of time left in the day to do a dozen other things. Ogilvie Twin-Packs make it possible.

If you really want to win men and influence all the women in the neighborhood-try the intriguing recipe below.

Ogilvie Secret Cake Mix Formula #12 ' Chocolate White Ripple Cake. Prepare two 8" layer pans. Prepare one envelope chocolate cake as directed.
Prepare, in separate bowl, one envelope white cake as directed. Alternate spoonfuls of chocolate and white batter in each pan. Draw a knife through batter in each pan two or three times to give ripple effect. Bake as directed. Fill and frost with your favourite frosting.

Grammar by Numbers' Invention B.C. Teacher Arouses Interest

VANCOUVER (CP) - A textbook which teaches grammar by numbers has been written by Donald Dashwood Jones, English teacher and vice-principal of Inglewood Junior High School here.

The book, Patterns for Writing, represents three years of work and research on the science of linguistics. "The important thing is to present a method by which the pupil can readily identify any word in a sentence, such as noun, verb, adverb, preposition or conjunction," he said in an interview.

He devised a series of symbols, and by memorizing a few of these the pupil can readily compose his own sentences. In effect, he learns grammar by numbers.

Here is an example of the formula by symbols: S, 1, 2L, 3, D. 1, 2, D, 1, P, 1,

A sentence constructed by use of the above symbols might read:

"When he was little, the man gave the ring to him."

The author stressed "the symbols are not important:

They are merely a convenient shorthand."

Explaining the symbols: 1 is a noun or pronoun; 2 is a verb and 2L is a "linking" or copula verb; 3 is an adjective; D is a determiner—a broad class that takes in the articles, the possessive adjectives, the demonstrative or the stresses of the stres adjectives, etc.; P is a preposition; S is a subordinate con-

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a la-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy." Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Susan Fervell, age 11, of Lakeside, Calif., for her question:

Answers to Questions

Mrs. H. G. Wilson, 1219 Basil Street, has answer for Mrs. D. A. G. who was asking how to remove crayon marks from children's bedroom walls. Use Pin-Sol, she says. Get in any grocery store. It's a liquid and can be diluted but she advises—"use it neat"—on a bit of cheesecloth. She has taken crayon marks off with it and says it is also excellent for reving any greasy marks from walls.

Mrs. J. A. Woods, 1734 Townley Street, thinks SOS a little "too harsh" for removing black shoe polish stains from linoleum and hardwood floors. She suggests that cheapest way is to buy a large can of lighter fluid. One drop on marks, a light rub and the marks disappear like magic. She should ow she has three boys.

Here's another remedy for removing lint on a black cotton dress, problem of Miss R., use a damp sponge over fabric. Another solution given by Mrs. Sam is Pixall lint remover. It's a roller with a sticky tape.

And for Mr. Pederson at Sidney. We've found someone who says she has two verses and the chorus of "Won't You Come Over to My House." It's Mrs. W. R. Bransby, 1318 Beach Drive.

708 VIEW at Douglas-

What makes Volkswagen tick? People have been asking that for years. But there's no mystery about a Volkswagen...a functional design for comfortable, low-cost transportation. Volkswagen's rear engine eliminates the long, power-wasting driveshaft, gives traction through mud and snow. Air-cooled, no water to freeze or boil. And you get up to 40 miles per

(ACTUALLY 375)

Volkswagen's ride is constantly smooth. It has independent suspension on all wheels-by torsion bars.

Balanced weight distribution empty or loaded. Anti-sway bar for flat cornering. And talk about passenger room-Volkswagen's got it. Stretch your legs, wear a hat; there's space aplenty front and back. Individual seats shaped for comfort adjust fore and aft. The angle of the seat back can also be changed. Two luggage areas. A sloped hood for better vision. Yes, Volkswagen keeps right on ticking for a long, long time. It's rugged. You might ask the Volkswagen owner on your street ... he's a real enthusiast.

Re-Trial Frees Man on Charge Of Seduction

A charge of seducing a 17year-old girl was dismissed in city police court Tuesday after a re-trial was ordered by B.C. Appeal Court for 20-year-old George Haines, 3011 Scott, who was returned to Victoria from Oakalla jail at the weekend.

Haines was serving two years less a day, imposed by Magi-strate A. I. Thomas when Haines pleaded guilty in November to seducing the girl "of previously chaste character" during a house party Oct. 30. Frederick James Morry, 20,

Also in the party were Foreign Minister Andrei Gromy-ko; Culture Minister Nikolai Georgi Zhukev, chairman of the committee for cultural relations with foreign countries; Semyon A. Skach-kov, chairman of a similar committee dealing with eco-nomic relations and foreign aid, and Pavel Satukov, editor of the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda.

Khrushchev will remain in India until next Tuesday, then push on to Burma for a brief stop. On Feb. 18 he goes to Indonesia, where he is expect-ed to spend a week before re-turning home with a stopover in Afghanistan.

The visit to India will pose problems for Khrushchev. Indian officials feel he is the only one who could induce China to give ground in the bitter dispute over the frontier between India and Tibet. He also arrives just after an anti-Communist coalition headed by Nehru's Congress party kept the Communists from regaining control of the state gaining control of the state of Kerala, where Nehru's gov. 'FEEL LIKE PRINCES'

Battenburgers Love New Royal Surname

BATTENBURG, West Germany (Reuters)—This small German village glowed with pride today that its name now is linked historically with the British Royal Mayor Wilhelm Arnold said the 1,000 villagers felt "like princes" at the news, announced two days ago, that non-royal descendants of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will bear the name Mountbatten-Windsor.

He said the village will invite the Royal Family to visit it and will send a telegram and gift to them. Philip adopted the name Mountbatten from his mother when he became a British subject in 1947. His ancestor was Prince Luis of Battenburg, a British admiral, who changed his name to Mountbatten in the First Arnold said Philip visited Battenburg once and sav the ruins of Battenburg castle.
